

I N D E X.

A.

ABILITIES, causes contributing to the display of them — 215

Abraham, the case of his offering up Isaac considered — 148

Account of what passed between Mr. Thompson and Dr. Burton — 281

Acquisitions derivative, what — 166, 167

Address to the electors of England, some account of — 471

Æschines, a Grecian orator, some account of — 4

L'Amant Jardinier, a dramatic entertainment at Paris, some account of — 273

Ambassadors (privileges of) on what founded — 311

Angria (Tulagee) his history, an account and character of — 451, — 458

Answer to the Fourth Letter to the People of England, an account of — 279

— to the Conduct of the Ministry examined, an account of — 474

Appeal to the People concerning Admiral Byng, account of — 285

Astronomical observations on a star's occultation by the moon — 474

Athenians effeminacy and luxury, the introduction to their ruin — 2

B.

Bates (Corporal) his life and memoirs, specimens, and a character of that work — 139—143

— (Julius) his similitudes of the Lord God in the Old Testament, an account of — 256

Blake (Dr.) his sermon before the University of Oxford, its character and extract from — 377

Bower (Mr.) vindicated from the insinuations of the papists, an account of — 72—75

B—w—r (A—d) severe reflections on — 86

Brander (Gustavus) his account of an echinus discovered in Antigua — 129

Bread, the virtues of a crust of, by Dr. Robinson, a character and specimen of — 93

Brekanridge, his letter on the probabilities of life in London — 26

Concerning the number of people in England — 126

Britain, the history of, vol. 2d. by David Hume, Esq; remarks on and extracts from — 385—404 and character of — 404

— true System, by Malachy Postlethwait, Esq; an account and specimen of — 434—448

Brocklesby (Dr.) his letter concerning sensibility and irritability — 32

Buckbarse, Memoirs of, its character — 275

Buncle

I N D E X.

Buncle (John) Esq; his life, account of, and extracts from 219
—227, character of — 227
Byng (Admiral) a letter relative to his case—251—Impartial reflections on his case—281—Appeal to the people concerning, and a letter to him — —285

C.

Cadet, a military treatise, an account of, with extracts 244—
251
Cancers of eye-lids, nose, &c. some account of — 28
Casa Santa at Naples, some account of — — 419
Cbarr-fish, some account of—39
Cicero's select orations translated, an account and character of 62
—72
Coal, where most probably to be found— — 105
Coins (Papal) legends on — 415
Conclave, an account of—363—
369
Concubinage inconsistent with marriage — — 175
Corder, his sermon, &c. an account of, with extracts — 381
Condillac (Abbe de) his essay on human knowledge, plan of 193, 194.—Peculiar opinions of his 195
Constantinople, curious particulars concerning it — 14 — several earthquakes there — 19
Contracts, the nature of, considered — — 171, 172
Coquet reformed, comedy, an account of — — 181
Critical Review's answer to Dr. Patten's charge against it 154—
Reply to J. Parsons's letter in the General Evening-Post 189
—192—Answers to other correspondents— 192, 288, 381, 488

D.

Damages, reparation of, considered ——— 178
Davies, Crusoe, Richard, the life of, a character and account of 351—357
Debt (national) a humorous project for paying it, 125.—Public, the danger of ——— 434
Defence, the right of, considered, 177. Private, the nature of, and how far justifiable — 234
Demades, a Grecian orator, some account of ——— 3
Demosthenes, his orations, the subjects and design of them, 1. His character as an orator, 4, 5, as a statesman and citizen, 5. The subjects and order of his several orations ——— 5, 6

E.

Earthquakes, several at Constantinople, 19. A satirical review of the falsehoods published concerning that at Lisbon — 85
Echinus, in Antigua, some account of ——— 129
Eeles (Henry, Esq;) his account of the power of electrical vapour 19—25
Electrical experiments, account of several ——— 130, 132
England, proposal for discovering the number of people in, 126—129. The state of, after the death of King Charles I. — 395
Error, the cause of, and origin of truth, considered ——— 216

F.

Fabularum, Æsopiarum, Lib. V. a character of, with extracts 269, 270
Fleming (Dr.) his observations on the nourishment of the fœtus 34
Franklin. See Electrical.

French,

I N D E X.

French, great encouragers of learning — 327
Fund (Public) reflections on the misapplication of — 439
Future state, whether revealed in the Jewish religion — 115

G.

Genius of Britain, an Iambic ode, a character and specimen of 470
Gentleman (fine) a description of — 250
German cruelty, account of that performance — 188
God, thoughts on his being, the nature of man, &c. some account of — 51—62
Gospel, whether revealed by Moses and the prophets to the Jews, 111. Arguments against this, ibid. — 115
Government (civil) of the different forms of — 232
Greenhill (Mr.) his Sermon, its character, with a specimen 380
Gunnery, introduction to, an abstract of that work, 327—330. Its character — 330

H.

Hales (Dr. Stephen) several curious experiments of his 132, 133
Handkerchief, the loss of, a Poem, an account and specimen of 475
Hanoverian motto, humorously explained — 125
Hearing, a method to restore it 30
Heatcote (Mr.) his affize sermon, a character of and abstracts from 348—350
Heliocene, a poem, character and specimen of — 88
Herculaneum, several late discoveries there — 15—19
Hospital, a humorous scheme of one — 125
Human knowledge. See Condillac.
Human species, an essay on the manner of perfecting it, some account of that work — 464

Husbandry, a compleat body of, plan of that work, 289—298. Character of — 298
Columella, on, commended 299
Hyperides, a Grecian orator, some account of him — 3

I.

Jamaica, account of it censured 82
James II. remarks on his character and conduct — 389
Januarius (St.) a remarkable inscription to — 417
Ideas, signs, how given them 199
Jenks, his meditations, a character and specimens of — 424—432
Jenny (Nicolas) an account of his tables — 373
Jewish law, its particular end and design — 117
The Jilts, or Female Fortune-hunters, a character of — 276
Illustrious men, the lives of, compared, some account of, with specimens — 467
Imagination, the progress of, 196, graces of, whence borrowed — 198
Inoculation, the grand objection to, considered. Account of that pamphlet — 278
Inscriptions (Roman) account of some — 29
Interpretation of promises, contracts, wills, &c. several kinds of — 242, 243
Job, some account of that antient book — 116
Johnson (Sir William) some account of, 156—158. Obligations of the British nation to him, 158. His great influence on the Indians, ibid. — 160

K.

Keysser's travels, an account and character of, with extracts, 363 372—490—508
Kings,

I N D E X.

Kings, the effect of civil laws on their promises, contracts, or oaths, 239. Of the changes made in their suecession — 241

L.

Language, the origin and progress of, considered, 202—206, partakes of the nature of music, 206, is expressive of the character of the people that speak it — 215

Laws (human) voluntary, three sorts of, 161. Civil law, what meant by it, and on what founded, 163—306. Law and compact, how they differ, 236. Effect of civil law on promises, contracts, or oaths 237—241

Leland (Mr.) his translation of Demosthenes's orations, character of, 6. See Demosthenes.

Letter (fourth) to the people of England, account of, 35—44—to a member of parliament, relative to admiral Byng, 251, from New-Jersey, character of, 280—to Mr. Pitt against admiral Byng, 376—to the Duke, 377—to the university of Cambridge, on a late resignation, an account and specimen of — 479

Liberty, restraints on, by the law of nature, several kinds of 168. Civil the nature of — 301

Life, probabilities of in London, — 26

Lilliput, a dramatic entertainment, an account of — 474

Linden Diederick, Wessel, on the waters at Llandrindod, account and character of — 97—109

London bishop of, examination of his sermons, an account and character of that work, 109— — 121

Love and Duty, a tragedy censured — 84

Lycurgus, his character as an orator — 3, 4

M.

Macedon and Athens, parallel between them, Great Britain and France — 83

Manduit, his dissertation on the American wasp-nest.

Marriage, the nature of, considered 175, 177, the effect of civil laws on, 240, rules proposed for making it agreeable — 465

Milton, his abilities and character vindicated — 388

Ministry, conduct of, impartially examined, an account and character of — 376

Minorca, account of the siege of, its character of 278 — a tragedy, extract from — 284

Miracles, whether the foundation of christianity — 144

The Mirror, a comedy, some account of — 477

The Monitor, character of and extracts from 243—248

Montrose, a pathological relation of his fate — 398—402

Morality and Religion, the folly of separating them — 342

Mosaic Work, observations on — 409

Munton (Mr.) his sermons, a character and extract of — 489

Musie, permanent marks of sound how taken, 207. Movement the soul of Musie, — 208

— a rational entertainment, &c. A sermon by Digby Cotes, some account and extracts 469

N

The National Evil, a sermon (a character of and extracts from) 459 — 461

Neustadt, description of a military academy there — 348, 349

Neutral Powers, obligations on them — 310

Nicholas Rubioni, first king of Paragua, his history — 75, 77

Nicholls,

I N D E X.

- Nicholls* (Dr.) his account of worms in animal bodies ——— 33
La None, a comedy (account of) 181,—186
Northern Memoirs, or history of a Scotch family, an account of and extracts from —448—451
 O
Oaths (the nature of) considered 172—175
Ode on the present times, a specimen and character of —87
 — (15) of the first book of Horace imitated, an account and specimen of ——— 476
One thousand seven hundred and fifty-six, a dialogue, its character with extracts ——— 282
Orphans (history of two) its character and specimen 340—343
 P
Paradise Lost (a new version of) its character and specimens 357 —362
Parental authority (the nature of) 170
Parsons (Dr.) his account of a petrefaction ——— 25
Particulars (further) concerning Adm. Byng, an account of and extracts from ——— 472
Pathetic address to all true Britons, its character with specimens 188
Patten (Dr.) his defence of his christian apology, a character of, with extracts ——— 188
Penn (Mr.) his sermon at Christ Church, its character with extracts ——— 287
St. Peter's at Rome (some account of) ——— 407
Poems by the translator of Virgil, character of, with extracts 276, 277
Polite modern divine, character specimen of ——— 89
Polydore and Julia, account of and extracts from ——— 283
Polype insects (some account of) 34
Porter (James) Esq; see Constantinople
Pretender, account of his court person, and household 369—372
Princess Poupamia, a burlesque tragedy (some account of) 79
Privateering (remarks on) — 310
Promises, their nature ——— 171
Property, its nature ——— 163—166
Prose, its nature, 209. The superiority of that of the Latins and other nations ——— 210
Prussia (king of) his conduct censured, 316. Attempts to vindicate it 317—326
 Q
Quadrant (Rowley's) account of 421—424
Quakers, apology for, a character and specimen of ——— 96
Quick Lime (action of upon volatile alkaline salt, an essay upon) 31
 R
Les Racoleurs, a comic opera (an account of) ——— 375
Ranger (David) juvenile adventures of, its character ——— 379
Raphael, his epitaph at Rome 414
Reasons to prove the letter at the end of the French memorial a forgery, an account and character of ——— 177
Remonstrances to the public, concerning Adm. Byng, account of ——— 473
Resistance, the right or liberty of, what ——— 303—306
Resurrection, see future state.
Revelation, truth of it, why rested on external proofs ——— 148, 149
Roads (public) an essay on, an account of ——— 87
Robin Hood society, a satire, a character and specimens of ——— 286
Romaine (Mr.) his Sermon on the dry bones, examined, 477
Rotunda,

I N D E X.

Rotunda, or Pantheon at Rome
(some account of) — — 412
Rutherford (Dr.) his principles of Natural Law, Abstract of 1st
Vol. with Specimens, 180—181
Ditto Vol 2d, 227—243. Character of — — — 315

S.

Schlosser (Dr.) his Essay on quick
Lime, &c. — — — 31
Sham Fight, some Account of, 280
Slavery, the nature of — — 181
Signs, the nature and use of, 196
Society (civil) its nature and origin,
228. Occasion of forming, ib.
How men became members of,
229

Sophronia, a poem, a character and specimens of — — — 461—464
Spry, his Sermon, a character and specimen of — — — 90
Stone, observations on medicines
for the cure of — — — 45—48
Subjection (civil) the nature and feveral kinds of — — — 299, 300
Succession, the nature of, 313, 314
System, the fatal consequences of the want of — — — 479

T.

Tew (Dr.) his sermon, a character and specimen of — — — 95
Theatres, two dissertations on,
character and specimens of, 48
Times, an essay on, the subject and character of, 135—138
Tophand, a noted poisoner at Naples, some account of — — 418
Transpositions, advantages arising from them — — — 213
Troops (foreign) an ironical defence of their being employ'd, 121,
124

Truth, the best method of investigating it — — — 217

V.

Vapour (electrical) some account of 19—25
Visions (philosophical) an abstract
and character of that work,
331—340
Voltaire (M. de) his compliment to the Duke de Richlieu on the conquest of Mahon — — — 270
Voting in society, the nature of,
227, 228
Voyage to Egypt and Nubia, by
F. Louis Norden, an account of 186, 188

W.

War, what a solemn and true
cause of — — — 308
Ward (Dr.) his account of some
Roman inscriptions, 29, 129
Waters, chalybeate at Bromely, account of, a character and specimen of — — — 91
— extraordinary agitation of,
134
— of Llandrindod, their medicinal qualities and contents, 98
— 103. Directions how to use them — — — 103, 109
Watten (Mr.) his method to restore hearing — — — 30
Wheels (broad) the advantages of
to the public roads — — — 87
Women (pregnant) directions concerning — — — 465
Words, the nature of, and order
in which they were invented, considered — — — 211, 212

Z.

Zoroaster, an opera, some account of — — — 77

F I N I S.

